

maltatoday

MALTA'S INDEPENDENT VOICE

INTERVIEW
PAUL BORG
OLIVIER
PGS 10-11

Sunday, 06 July 2008 – issue 452

www.maltatoday.com.mt

THREE MEN IN A BOAT

Gone fishing: Charles Azzopardi, George Pullicino and Andrew Calleja

ENVIRONMENT Minister George Pullicino, former MEPA Chairman Andrew Calleja and tuna tycoon Charles Azzopardi went together on a yachting trip to Sicily right in the midst of tuna pen controversy, MaltaToday reveals. Yet, both the minister and Calleja deny any conflict of interest. And in a farcical twist of fate that could have turned into tragedy, the same yacht wrecked shortly after the three men disembarked because of the bad weather

FULL story on page 6

TUNA INDUSTRY MAGNATE IN BREACH OF PLANNING RULES – PAGE 6

Nathalie Attard in her best pose

Nathalie gives Jason the middle finger

LABOUR Party delegate Nathalie Attard opened a broadside on outgoing secretary general Jason Micallef in a letter which she also sent to other delegates, accusing him of destroying the MLP, leaking sensitive party documents and of framing her up.

pg 5 >

'Mea Culpa' – sorry not the hardest word for MEPA chairman

JAMES DEBONO

AUSTIN Walker, the new chairman of the Malta Environment and Planning Authority, acknowledged that he made a mistake when he asked his public relations officer to write press statements pre-announcing the outcome of a MEPA board meeting on the 20-storey Fort Cambridge development.

"I take full responsibility for my mistake. I pray to God to give me the wisdom not to repeat similar mistakes in the future," Walker told MaltaToday.

pg 7 >

Model: ELITRE

The July Open Week Event

Introducing fantastic offers on all furniture for your Home!

July 7th-14th, 9am - 9pm
All Day, All Week + Saturday & Sunday!

fino[®]
www.fino.com.mt