

No shame: Joseph Muscat celebrates at Caqnu's vineyards

LABOUR leader Joseph Muscat marked his entry into Parliament by holding celebrations at none other than Charles Polidano's wine vaults yesterday night.

The building magnate, speculator and mega contractor is no longer the Opposition's persona non grata, as amply shown by Muscat's choice of venue yesterday.

The party at Montekristo Wine Vaults, property of Polidano Brothers, was organised by Forum Zg-hazagh Laburisti – the Labour youths' organisation – despite years of attacks by the party media on Polidano.

But not all politicians in the Labour party have been keen to hit out at Polidano. In the recent weeks some senior Labour politicians have been seen at Caqnu's offices at Hal Farrug. Muscat's decision to attend the event at the Montekristo vineyard is indicative of the 34-year-old's predisposition to get closer to big business and forget past skirmishes.

pg6 >

SAID TOLD TO STAY AWAY FROM BROTHERS

pg7 >

SHIPYARDS RE-ENGAGE

EARLY RETIREMENT WORKERS

pg3 >

ONE journalists oppose transfer to Marsa

A number of ONE Productions journalists have opposed the decision of MLP leader Joseph Muscat to transfer the newsroom to Marsa. Led by Charlon Gouder and his junior entourage a substantial number of journalists signed a letter requesting the company not to implement such a move.

See full story on page 4

They had their say, now have yours

The maltatoday blog >

SPECIALISTS IN ENERGY-SAVING LIGHTING

