

Scicluna

Economist Edward Scicluna enjoys a threefold advantage over his nearest rival, established MEP John Attard Montalto, while Joseph Cuschieri's personal 'sacrifice' – which enabled Joseph Muscat to take up a seat in parliament – seems to have endeared him to 4.2% of Labourites. As things stand, third place is equally divided among incumbents Grech and Bedingfield, as well as Mizzi and Ellul Bonici.

Busuttil

With just over 70% having apparently made up their minds, Simon Busuttil now looks firmly anchored in the European Parliament with a staggering 50.9%. Casa looks equally at home in Brussels with 9.1%, while the rest of the PN vote is evenly split between newcomers Farrugia and Portelli, as well as Metsola Tedesco Triccas.
