

MARIO GALEA - 'I AM NOT UNFIT FOR OFFICE'

The parliamentary secretary says he is now 'functioning better' after seeking help for depression: 'a stigma that affects 33,000'

MATTHEW VELLA

MARIO Galea, the parliamentary secretary in the ministry of health, has refuted suggestions that he is unfit for political office due to a recent episode of depression for which he had to seek medical help.

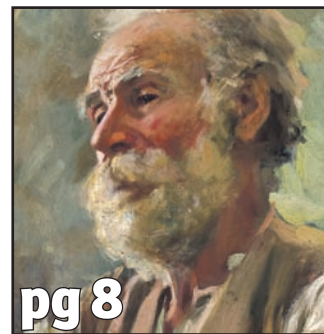

Galea also denied having a "drinking problem", after Labour whip Joe Mizzi last week suggested on daytime TV show Bongu that the Nationalist party "should not have allowed Galea to drink whisky" prior to last Thursday's debate on a Labour motion.

PAGE 5

OPINION

Anna Mallia
pg12

pg 8

Face off - Caruana Dingli exhibition

pg6

Valletta: Uncultured capital?

FREE INSIDE

Business Today

Stocks, euro fall on new rescue doubts

€1.23 million owed in car registration refunds

Selmun will not sell for less than €8.4 million

FIMBank plc holds 2010 Annual General Meeting

MIA registers 2.1% net profit, despite difficulties

Go selects Alcatel-Lucent as partner for mobile network upgrade

PN BACKBENCHER UNREST REIGNITES AFTER JUSTYNE CARUANA 'RUSE' – PAGE 2

Smash & Jag!

Jaguar crashed in Saturday's Classic Grand Prix may have been worth over $2 million

PAGE 3

Citadelmarine

Sea the difference with Citadel's Marine insurance policy

May Offer
€15 Discount*
on Marine Insurance

- no claims discount
- accidental damage
- liability to third parties
- personal accident
- personal effects
- ... and more

Call us on freephone 8007 2322 or log on www.Citadelirect.com for a quote

